Louisville Free Public Library to offer special programs and activities for youth while school is out

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (August 13, 2023) – The Louisville Free Public Library is always ready to offer free activities and resources for kids and teens to help them when school is in, or keep them engaged when school is out! This Monday, August 14 and Tuesday, August 15, in addition to regularly scheduled storytimes and teen programs, LFPL will offer special programming for youth while JCPS is closed. Activities will include board games, LEGOs, art and craft activities, scavenger hunts, and more at various library locations. In addition to in-person programming, LFPL's YouTube channel, www.youtube.com/AskLFPL, includes playlists of a variety of recorded storytimes, art workshops, and 4-H cooking and crafting programs for kids. Check the Library's calendar, www.LFPL.org/Events, for more information, or call your local branch library to see what they may be offering.

As always, the Library provides kids and teens free access to thousands of books, eBooks, graphic novels, and streaming movies and television shows – available free with a library card. Visit www.LFPL.org or call (502) 574-1611 to learn more.
